Student Government Update:

Speaker	Audio
Zane Khader	Hello ladies and gentlemen my name is Zane Khader and I'm the Student Body President of Greenwich High School and I'm going to be giving these monthly segments to you guys, just to give you guys an update on what's happening in Student Government, what's happening around the school and what you can do to get involved. So, not a lot of things are happening right now in Student Government, we're kind of just getting started. But I did want to bring or cast light on some subcommittees that we're running. The first one is going to be relating to midterm testing policy. Now we notice a lot of kids are having their tests right before midterms so that they have no time to study. That policy that we would focus on in the Subcommittee would aim to get rid of that stress and give kids more time for studying for midterms and overall would provide a better climate and environment for students with midterms. Couple others, there's one that's meant to create designated areas for Uber and Lyft pickup. Obviously a lot of kids use Uber and Lyft these days and so we figured if there was a designated area for those drivers to go, the flow of traffic would be significantly improved and we would overall have a better environment for those kids who need to get out of school on time. And the last one is on education for trans sensitivity at the High School. Obviously in our age and era, a lot of kids are coming out as trans and there

Speaker	Audio
	isn't enough education to the teachers and students on pronouns, what we should be using. We figured that was an important issue. There's a lot of other subcommittees but those are just the first three, and I would just leave you guys with some advice. I know High School is pretty tough. It is not easy. But, in my experience if you have a goal and you focus on that goal, that goal will motivate you, that goal will humble you, and best of all, that goal will keep you going through the hard times. Ladies and gentlemen, I hope you just have a goal, and keep going, and High School won't be that difficult if you do. Thank you, I'm Zane Khader, and I approve this message.

Student Questions:

Speaker	Audio
Johnny	If you could have one wild animal as a pet what would it be?
Student #1	An elephant
Student #2	I'd probably say a bald eagle
Student #3	A lion
Student #4	A lion.
Johnny	Is a hot dog a sandwich
Student #5	Yes, it is
Student #6	I mean I don't know. I just don't think it's a sandwich. Actually it is a sandwich because it is in between two pieces of bread.
Student #7	I have been thinking about this a lot. I don't think it is a sandwich because technically, when the hot dog bun are in the package, they are connected on one side and I think a sandwich is two separate pieces of bread, with stuff in the middle. So technically sometimes the hot dog bun does separate, but in its true form, it's supposed to be connected.

Speaker	Audio
Student #3	Yes.
Student #6	No, it's not warm.
Student #7	Cereal isn't soup. Cereal is its own thing. Cereal is cereal.
Johnny	How many holes does a straw have?
Student #4	Two
Student #5	Two
Student #8	If you cut a hole in a piece of plastic, there's one hole. If you were to make that piece of plastic longer, it's still one hole.
Johnny	Does a straw have two holes?
Student #6	Yes. Because there is one on top one on bottom.
Student #9	No, there's one hole.
Student #6	No, it's two holes. How many holes are in a shirt?
Student #10	Four
Student #6	Four, Exactly
Student #9	No I'm saying there's three, there are two sides and the main one.
Student #6	No, there are four holes in a shirt that makes two holes in a straw.
Johnny	Many people argue that there is one hole because it comes in through the top and leaves through the bottom.

Speaker	Audio
Student #6	That's a good point but I don't agree with that. I think there is just a hole on both sides.
Student #9	It's like what's separating the holes though.
Student #6	Nothing is separating the holes but (laughs).
Student #9	So there's one hole. I'm sorry I'm just getting upset by this.

Interview with Sean Harriman, GHS Teacher:

Speaker	Audio
Sean Harriman	Hi. I'm Sean Herriman. I teach AP psychology, honors american history, and ancient civilizations. It depends on the class what I like to teach the most. In honors american history, it might be the cold war unit. In ancient civilizations, it would definitely be the Greece unit, and in AP psychology, probably my favorite units would be memory. It just depends on the class. You know, some units are more exciting to teach and more engaging to the students than others. Easily the best part of teaching is that every day is different. I wake up in the morning, I never know what's going to happen. I have a plan. I have a lesson, an idea, but I never know how it's going to turn out in regards to how the students are going to accept it or what's going to happen in the classroom. Every day is a different day and that's the best part. Well, I'm really big into film. I watched movies a lot. I go to the movies. I also play video games all the time. I have a family, so obviously I spend a lot of time with my family. But my two big hobbies that consume most of my time would definitely be movies and video games. Definitely my favorite thing about Greenwich High School is the freedom with responsibility concept that's been going on here for as long as I can remember. Students have the ability to, you know, take a chance on something and if, and if they mess it up then so be it. For example, in my class I give the students the freedom to do homework or not and to gamble with your future. In fact, every day, I use this electronic die to determine whether or not there's a homework quiz. If there's a quiz, then they have to show me their homework or take some type of multiple choice quiz. If not, then they don't. That choice is theirs. The freedom is theirs.
